I. Objective of this note

At the 19th meeting of the GCF Board in March 2018, the GCF Board requested the Independent Evaluation Unit (IEU) of the Green Climate Fund to prepare an evaluation policy for the GCF. This approach paper lays out the rationale, workplan and timeline to develop this policy.

II. Process for developing the GCF’s evaluation policy

The evaluation policy (‘Policy’) will incorporate and reflect best practices in the field of evaluation while also ensuring that it reflects the content and concerns relevant to the Green Climate Fund. In this regard, it is especially important to note the provision made in the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) for this purpose which requests evaluation reports to be provided to the Convention. Two key processes will be used to develop the GCF’s Policy. First, it will use an extensive process of consultations. Accordingly, a list of principal stakeholders is described in Annex I. Second, it will review the experiences of other relevant organizations.

III. Principles for developing the evaluation policy

The IEU will serve as the overall guardian of the GCF’s evaluation policy. It will adhere to the following principles and guidelines while developing the Policy.

First, the IEU will continue to adopt an extensive consultative process within the GCF and with its stakeholders including representatives from accredited entities and national designated authorities (NDAs). Please refer to Annex I for a list and the primary mode of engagement.

Second, the IEU will use the working definition of the legal framework of the Fund. It is important to seek clarification in this regard since it has implications for what the Policy encompasses (the scope), how it is defined (the process), and who is involved (the stakeholders of the policy).

Third, a policy is only useful if it provides guidance for implementation through procedures and standards. Guidelines and standards will be discussed and piloted before being finalized.

Fourth, the Policy will consider the context of the GCF including its existing policies. The Policy will be aligned with the mandate of the GCF as stated in its governing instrument and the guidance provided by the UNFCCC. It will consider the early days of the Fund as well as the national context of countries. It will have clear links to existing GCF policies and procedures. The Policy will also set the stage for developing guidelines and procedures that will support its implementation.

1 See B.06/18 and B.19/21
Fifth, the Green Climate Fund is a rapidly evolving organization. Keeping this in mind, the Policy will include a process for it to be revised every five years to ensure that it reflects best practices in the field and the changing context of the GCF.

Finally, the Policy will define key principles such as credible measurement, independence and utility; clarify roles and responsibilities of GCF partners involved with the preparation and implementation of projects; and clarify the IEU’s role and its linkages with functions such as monitoring, risk, audit, knowledge management and other independent units.

IV. Timeline

Key dates for developing the Policy are noted in Table 1.
